Icons beyond their borders

The German-Jewish intellectual legacy at the beginning of the twenty-first century

Steven E. Aschheim
26 January 2011

Romantic valorization only partly explains the iconic status of German-Jewish intellectuals. Their resistance to ideological classification and tactics of critical displacement have attracted them to the post-modernists, whose impact they will probably outlast, writes Steven E. Aschheim.

Published 26 January 2011

Original in English
First published in Mittelweg 36 6/2010 (German version)
Downloaded from eurozine.com (https://www.eurozine.com/icons-beyond-their-borders/)
© Steven E. Aschheim / Mittelweg 36 / Eurozine